Z Numb. 587

The Daily Courant.

Friday, March 3 1704

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 4.

Vienna, February 20.

THE 17th an Order was publish'd, enjoyning all Ecclesiastical Persons to bring in so much of their Plate as they do not ordinarily use, to be coin'd, which several of them have already done. 'Tis confirm'd from Tyrol, that 10000 Peasants of that Country having made an Irruption into Bavaria, carried off a great number of Cattle, and above 400000 Florins Contributions. His Imperial Majesty has caus'd great Sums to be remitted to the Regents of Tyrol, for providing the most advantagious Posts with all things necessary for their Defence, and to repair the Fortifications that are ruin'd or decay'd. They write from Croatia, that the Assembly of the Estates of that Country have resolv'd to furnish the Emperor with 15000 Men of their Militia, and to sacrifice their Lives and Fortunes for his Service. A Captain of the Regiment of Prince Eugene is arriv'd here; he was taken by the Rebels and set at Liberty on his Parole: He reports, the Rebels are divided into 4 Bodies, which in all amount to near 100000 Men; that Tockay, Mongatz, and Erla have surrendred to them: And that there was a Report among them, that they are likewise possess'd of Hermanstad the chief City of Transilvania. We learn they are also Masters of Tschakaturn, and have pillag'd Five Churches. From Presburg they write the 17th, that Count Berezeni has bruis'd himself dangerously by a Fall, and that Dissention begins to spread among the chief Officers of the Rebels. The Council of War has resolv'd that all the Recruits rais'd by the Hereditary Countries, shall march with all speed to the Upper Austria. Count Gronsfield and the Count of Lamberg are come hither, and two days ago General Tramp return'd from hence to Lintz, to resume the Command of the Troops to be employ'd against the Bavarians. The Court have given Orders for the Turkish Envoy who is arriv'd at Belgrade, to be receiv'd there by a Gentleman who will be sent on purpose, and to be conducted hither through Croatia and Stiria, because the direct Passage through Hungary is at present cut off by the Rebels. The Priest that came hither from the Archbishop of Colozza, and was sent back with the Resolutions of this Court touching an Accommodation with the Rebels, is fallen Sick on the Road.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 7.

From the Upper Austria, Feb. 19. The Regents of this Province being inform'd that the Bavarians are drawing together again about Passau, have commanded every third Man to appear in Arms for the Defence of the Country. Several Conferences were lately held at Lintz between some Deputies of this Country and the Imperial Head Officers, in which it was agreed that the Militia shall obey the Emperor's Officers. The Militia exercise daily, that they may be fit to serve with the Regular Troops. We learn from Tyrol, that they have taken like Measures to withstand any Attempts of the Enemy. 'Tis confirm'd that the Bavarians committed great Cruelties at Neumark, where they cut in pieces 300 Peasants, and made Plunder of every thing they laid their hands on, not sparing the Sacred Ornaments of the Churches.

Vienna, Feb. 23. The 21st some Letters from the Elector of Bavaria to the Rebels were intercepted, by which a Discovery is made of a Project they have form'd to invade at once the Hereditary Countries: And yesterday 2 Persons convicted of carrying Letters between the Rebels and Bavarians were put to Death. Baron Overzagt, who was sent to General Heister with Orders from his Imperial Majesty, return'd hither yesterday: He reports that the Town of Ebenfurt is besieg'd by the Rebels, is well defended, but cannot hold out long. From Transilvania they write, that the Rebels have taken Weissembourg, Clausenbourg, and Cronstat, only the Castle of the last of these Places holds out still. The 21st a Party of them burnt the Village of Wolfstat, near the Island Schut; but were repuls'd from the Castle, which they attempted to Scale, and lost, 'tis said, 100 Men. The same day General Palsi set out from hence for Croatia, to put himself at the Head of 8000 Croatians, and march against the Rebels joyntly with General Heister. The Count de Lamberg, Provincial Captain of the Upper Austria, is come hither to make a Report of the Condition of that Country, and of the Resolution taken by the Inhabitants and Peasants, not only to stand on the Defensive, but likewise to act Offensively against the Bavarians, and to make an Irruption into their Country. General Heister, having left the Posts on the Leita well guarded, broke up the 21st to march to Pfotendorf, and has drawn all the Artillery out of the Arcenal there, to send it hither. The Night after he made a Counter-march, and pass'd the Leita to offer Battle to the Rebels; but they having notice of it, retir'd, with little loss. P. S. This Moment Advice is come, that the Rebels, who were on the March towards the Danube, are turn'd back towards the Leita, to face our Troops.

From the Upper Austria, Feb. 27. Count Berezeni continues indispos'd. He is very much inclin'd to an Accommodation, and is extreamly satisfied with the Project of a Treaty sent him from Court. So that we hope the Troubles of Hungary will soon end. We are assur'd the Elector of Bavaria has caus'd 300 Boats to be got together on the Danube, and to be laden with Provisions, Ammunitions, &c. which makes it apprehended his Design is against Vienna. P. S. Just now comes Intelligence, that several thousand Bavarians are on the March to enter Tyrol once more, and that they will be follow'd by some French Troops.

From the Paris Gazette a la Main, dated Feb. 25.

Paris, Feb. 25. The Elector of Bavaria has again taken the Field; some say he designs to lay Siege to Nuremberg, and others, that he will endeavour to drive the Imperialists out of the Upper Palatinate, and to enter Bohemia to favour the Party he has in that Country. The Marshal de Tallard is not yet gone for Strasburg.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated March 6.

Stutgard, Feb. 26. Some days ago 14 Battallions of the French came before Munderkirchen, which Place is garrison'd by Dutch Troops commanded by Mr. Preus. They summon'd the Place thrice to surrender, but in vain; then they threaten'd to give no Quarter in case they should be oblig'd to plant their Artillery against it. The Governour answer'd, that he could not justifie himself for delivering up a Place before it was attack'd. Whereupon, the 20th instant, the Town was cannonaded from 1 till 9 a clock. The next day the Enemy summon'd the Place again, and offer'd to let the Garrison march out, but the Governour refus'd. The next day the Enemy drew off from before it.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 7.

Frankfort, Feb. 27. The French at Strasburg hourly expect the Arrival of the Marſhal de Tallard, to undertake ſome great Deſign: 'Tis talk'd they will attempt to force the Lines of Buhl and Stohlhoffen, and then to paſs through Wirtemberg to joyn the Bavarians, who have need of Succours. The Prince of Naſſau has warn'd the Aſſembly of the Circle of the Upper Rhine of this Deſign, and urg'd them to furniſh ſpeedily a ſufficient Number of Troops to defend thoſe Lines: They have written about it to the Prince of Darmſtad and the Abbot of Fulda; and 'tis ſaid they are duely ſenſible of the neceſſity of taking fit Meaſures to fruſtrate ſuch a Deſign; and that the Reinforcements appointed for the Lines, are order'd to begin their March thither the 6th of next Month. The Duke of Wirtemberg is with a Detachment about Nordlingen to cover that Place. The 24th the Count Deſchel, diſpatch'd from Vienna by the Elector Palatine, paſs'd through this City in his way to Holland and England, on a Meſſage to the Duke of Marlborough: That Count reports, they are in great Hopes at Vienna, of a ſpeedy Accommodation with the Hungarians.

Frankfort, March 2. Prince Lewis of Baden will ſet out tomorrow from Aſchaffembourg, to go to the Lines of Buhl and Stohlhoffen, to make the neceſſary Diſpoſitions for defending them, if the Enemy ſhould venture to attack them

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 4.

Turin, Feb. 15. We have Advice that 400 Horſe of the Garriſon of Novare, ſupported by ſome Infantry, were met by 1500 German Horſe of thoſe that are quarter'd about Verceil, and were totally defeated. There is no account of the number kill'd, nor any other Particulars, than that 150 Horſes are brought into Verceil, and that the Count de Medavi was taken Priſoner in this Action, and will be brought hither. Of which we wait a Confirmation.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 7.

Amſterdam, March 7. The freſheſt Letters from Italy tell us, General Vaubonne hath defeated a ſtrong Body of Catalonians, which are the beſt Horſe the Spaniards have in Italy: That he has taken 14 or 15 Officers, and above 250 Soldiers all well mounted. 'Tis probable this may be the Action mention'd in the Letters from Turin of the 15th of February.
